

Where to dine in 2016: 10 of the world's best new restaurants

By Chris Dwyer, for CNN

Updated 0320 GMT (1120 HKT) January 20, 2016

Best new restaurants

El Informal (Barcelona) – Chef Marc Gascons' new see-and-be-seen restaurant El Informal features shared and seasonal plates made with local produce. Menu stars include honeyed gnocchi with black truffle or grilled kid goat with herb-infused oils.

(CNN) Restaurant fans around the world have plenty to make their mouth water this year, with new dining destinations emerging at an astonishing rate.

Menus have never been so diverse, or indeed bizarre -- ants and kangaroo tails are on the menu at Noma's pop-up in Sydney, while guinea pig has moved from dining tables in Ecuador to Raymi in New York.

Asking for Peruvian classics in Dubai is as easy as finding French haute cuisine in Vietnam or Nebraska's finest steaks in Ghana.

Amongst the vast array of new openings, here are 10 global tables worth traveling for in 2016.